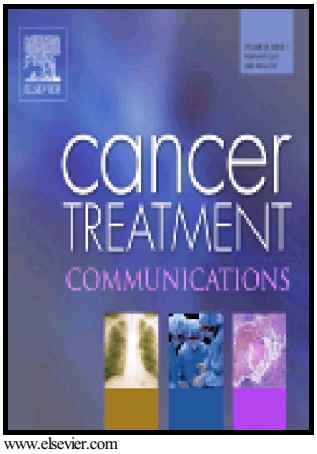
Author's Accepted Manuscript



www.elsevier.com

Prognostic value of total lesion glycolysis and metabolic active tumor volume in non-small cell lung cancer

Karolien Vanhove, Liesbet Mesotten, Micheline Heylen, Ruben Derwael, Evelyne Louis, Peter Adriaensens, Michiel Thomeer, Ronald Boellaard

PII: S2468-2942(16)30179-4
DOI: https://doi.org/10.1016/j.ctarc.2017.11.005
Reference: CTARC74

To appear in: Cancer Treatment and Research Communications

Received date: 24 December 2016
Revised date: 14 July 2017
Accepted date: 14 November 2017

Cite this article as: Karolien Vanhove, Liesbet Mesotten, Micheline Heylen, Ruben Derwael, Evelyne Louis, Peter Adriaensens, Michiel Thomeer and Ronald Boellaard, Prognostic value of total lesion glycolysis and metabolic active tumor volume in non-small cell lung cancer, Cancer Treatment and Research Communications, https://doi.org/10.1016/j.ctarc.2017.11.005

This is a PDF file of an unedited manuscript that has been accepted for publication. As a service to our customers we are providing this early version of the manuscript. The manuscript will undergo copyediting, typesetting, and review of the resulting galley proof before it is published in its final citable form. Please note that during the production process errors may be discovered which could affect the content, and all legal disclaimers that apply to the journal pertain.

ACCEPTED MANUSCRIPT

Prognostic value of total lesion glycolysis and metabolic active tumor volume in non-small cell lung cancer

Karolien Vanhove[1], Liesbet Mesotten [1,2*], Micheline Heylen[1], Ruben Derwael[1],Evelyne Louis[1], Peter Adriaensens[3] , Michiel Thomeer[1,2], Ronald Boellaard[4].

[1]Hasselt University, Faculty of Medicine and Life Sciences, Martelarenlaan 42, B-3500 Hasselt, Belgium

[2]Ziekenhuis Oost Limburg, Schiepse Bos 6, 3600 Genk, Belgium

[3]Hasselt University, Institute for Materials Research, Applied and Analytical Chemistry, Agoralaan Building D, B-3590 Diepenbeek, Belgium

[4]VU University Medical Center, Department of Radiology & Nuclear Medicine ,De Boelelaan 1117 1081 HV Amsterdam, the Netherlands

*Corresponding author: Liesbet Mesotten, PhD, MD, Department of Nuclear Medicine, Ziekenhuis Oost Limburg, Schiepse Bos 6, 3600 Genk, Belgium. liesbet.mesotten@zol.be

Accepted manuscript

Abstract

Introduction

To predict the outcome of patients with non-small cell lung cancer (NSCLC) the currently used prognostic system (TNM) is not accurate enough. The prognostic significance of the SUV_{max} measured by PET remains controversial. This study aims to evaluate the prognostic value in overall survival and

Download English Version:

https://daneshyari.com/en/article/8785746

Download Persian Version:

https://daneshyari.com/article/8785746

Daneshyari.com