

Author's Accepted Manuscript

Using virtual worlds to conduct health-related research: Lessons from two pilot studies in Second life

Jennifer Keelan, Leslie Beard Ashley, Dante Morra, Vincent Busch, Katherine Atkinson, Kumanan Wilson

PII: S2211-8837(15)00030-1
DOI: <http://dx.doi.org/10.1016/j.hlpt.2015.04.004>
Reference: HLPT139

To appear in: Health Policy and Technology

Cite this article as: Jennifer Keelan, Leslie Beard Ashley, Dante Morra, Vincent Busch, Katherine Atkinson, Kumanan Wilson, Using virtual worlds to conduct health-related research: Lessons from two pilot studies in Second life, Health Policy and Technology, <http://dx.doi.org/10.1016/j.hlpt.2015.04.004>

This is a PDF file of an unedited manuscript that has been accepted for publication. As a service to our customers we are providing this early version of the manuscript. The manuscript will undergo copyediting, typesetting, and review of the resulting galley proof before it is published in its final citable form. Please note that during the production process errors may be discovered which could affect the content, and all legal disclaimers that apply to the journal pertain.

Using virtual worlds to conduct health-related research: Lessons from two pilot studies in Second LifeJennifer Keelan <sup>a</sup>Leslie Beard Ashley <sup>b</sup>Dante Morra <sup>b</sup>Vincent Busch <sup>c</sup>Katherine Atkinson <sup>d</sup>Kumanan Wilson <sup>d</sup>

<sup>a</sup> University of Toronto, Dalla Lana School of Public Health 155 College Street, Toronto, ON M5T 3M7
jenn.keelan@utoronto.ca, 011-1-416-875-3100

<sup>b</sup> Trillium Health Partners 100 Queensway West, 7th floor Clinical Administration Building, Mississauga,
Ontario, L5B 1B8 leslie.ashley@trilliumhealthpartners.ca

<sup>c</sup> Julius Center for Health Sciences and Primary Care, UMC Utrecht, Universiteitsweg 100 3584CG,
Utrecht v.busch@umcutrecht.nl

<sup>d</sup> Ottawa Hospital Research Institute, Clinical Epidemiology Program, 725 Parkdale Ave, Ottawa ON K1Y
4E9 kwilson@ohri.ca

KEYWORDS: Virtual Worlds, Second Life, immunization, social media, qualitative research, digitally-mediated health research

RUNNING TITLE: Conducting Health research in SecondLife

Download English Version:

<https://daneshyari.com/en/article/10168158>

Download Persian Version:

<https://daneshyari.com/article/10168158>

Daneshyari.com