

Accepted Manuscript

Motherhood immigrant women in Chile: a qualitative study

Estela Arcos , Antonia Vollrath , Ximena Sánchez ,
Christine Bailey

PII: S0266-6138(18)30242-0
DOI: <https://doi.org/10.1016/j.midw.2018.08.008>
Reference: YMIDW 2327

To appear in: Midwifery

Received date: 10 November 2017
Revised date: 14 May 2018
Accepted date: 12 August 2018

Please cite this article as: Estela Arcos , Antonia Vollrath , Ximena Sánchez , Christine Bailey ,
Motherhood immigrant women in Chile: a qualitative study, Midwifery (2018), doi:
<https://doi.org/10.1016/j.midw.2018.08.008>

This is a PDF file of an unedited manuscript that has been accepted for publication. As a service to our customers we are providing this early version of the manuscript. The manuscript will undergo copyediting, typesetting, and review of the resulting proof before it is published in its final form. Please note that during the production process errors may be discovered which could affect the content, and all legal disclaimers that apply to the journal pertain.

HIGHLIGHTS

1. Immigrant women face cultural and institutional barriers, as well as social and personal adversities that conditions a complex process of social vulnerability to take responsibility for a safe motherhood and rearing.
2. From immigrant's women discourses, difficulties to access the health system could be observed, due to institutional and structural barriers that represented a limitation for social and cultural integration
3. Living the phases of the migration process and an unwanted pregnancy – in most cases - made the women face the challenge of rearing in another country, in economic vulnerability and emotional instability.
4. It is necessary to mention the role of the midwifery and nursing from the point of view of assistance, due to their responsibility in accompanying the child-rearing period for both, native and immigrant women for years.
5. The need for new knowledge of the cultural and social structure of an individual, family and community, for provides an integrated, interdisciplinary and cross-cultural approach to care in contexts of vulnerability conditioned by migration.

MOTHERHOOD INMIGRANT WOMEN IN CHILE: A QUALITATIVE STUDY

Ethical Approval file: ethical aspects approved by the Ethics Scientific Committee of the Faculty of Nursing of the UNAB (L1/CECENF/84), July 2015. Annexed in Supplementary Material.

Authors

Download English Version:

<https://daneshyari.com/en/article/11005520>

Download Persian Version:

<https://daneshyari.com/article/11005520>

Daneshyari.com