

Acknowledgement to Reviewers

The Journal of the Neurological Sciences (JNS) is a broad-based journal which publishes articles from a wide spectrum of disciplines, ranging from basic neuroscience to clinical cases. The individuals whose names appear in the list below have provided peer reviews of manuscripts which were submitted to JNS during the past year. This elite group of individuals from around the world includes some of the best and brightest minds in neuroscience and clinical neurology. They receive no remuneration for their work for the journal and take time from their busy schedules to review our articles. All of the Associate Editors and I thank them for their indispensable work. The journal would not survive without their expert advice. I express my most sincere gratitude to all of the reviewers. They inform and enlighten all of us in the Editorial office and help to make JNS a journal of the highest quality.

John D. England, MD
Editor-in-Chief, Journal of the Neurological Sciences
