

Annals of Vascular Surgery

The International Journal of Vascular Surgery and Endovascular Therapies

Volume 25

Number 4

May 2011

Official publication for:

Brazilian Society of Angiology and Vascular
Surgery

French Society for Vascular Surgery

Peripheral Vascular Surgery Society, USA

Southern California Vascular Surgical Society

Vascular Interventional Advances (VIVA)

Vascular Society of India

Vascular Surgeons of Spanish Language

Contents

CLINICAL RESEARCH

- Carotid Endarterectomy in Academic Versus Community Hospitals: The National Surgical Quality Improvement Program Data . . . . . 433
Joy Garg, David A. Frankel, and Ralph B. Dilley, La Jolla, California
- Upper Extremity Deep Venous Thrombosis: Reassessing the Risk for Subsequent Pulmonary Embolism . . . . . 442
Mark M. Levy, Christopher Bach, Ruth Fisher-Snowden, and Justin D. Pfeifer, Richmond, Virginia
- Outcomes and Timing of Aortic Surgery in Renal Transplant Patients. . . . . 448
Katherine A. Gallagher, Reid A. Ravin, Eugene Schweitzer, Tina Stern, and Stephen T. Bartlett, New York, New York and Baltimore, Maryland
- Determining Criteria for Predicting Stenosis With Ultrasound Duplex After Endovascular Intervention in Infrainguinal Lesions. . . . . 454
Gautam V. Shrikhande, Ashley R. Graham, Ritu Aparajita, Kathy A. Gallagher, Nicholas J. Morrissey, James F. McKinsey, and Rajeev Dayal, New York, New York
- Comparative Predictors of Mortality for Endovascular and Open Repair of Ruptured Infrarenal Abdominal Aortic Aneurysms. . . . . 461
Timur P. Sarac, Mohsen Bannazadeh, A.F. Rowan, James Bena, Sunita Srivastava, Mathew Eagleton, Sean Lyden, Daniel G. Clair, and Vikram Kashyap, Cleveland, Ohio
- Is Thromboangiitis Obliterans Presentation Influenced by Cannabis Addiction? . . . . . 469
Guillaume Martin-Blondel, Fabien Koskas, Patrice Cacoub, and Damien Sène, Paris, France
- Traumatic Aortic Rupture: 30 Years of Experience . . . . . 474
Malliet Cindy, Houthoofd Sabrina, Daenens Kim, Maleux Geert, and Fourneau Inge, Leuven, Belgium
- Is Use of a Continuous Autotransfusion System Beneficial in Emergency Abdominal Aortic Aneurysm (AAA) Surgery? . . . . . 481
C.N. Brown, C. Hakim, R.D. Sayers, N.J.M. London, and A. Nasim, Leicester, United Kingdom
- Physiologic Component of the Estimation of Physiologic Ability and Surgical Stress Scoring System as a Predictor of Immediate Outcome After Elective Open Abdominal Aortic Aneurysm Repair . . . . . 485
Fábio Hüsemann Menezes, and Vinicius Meneguette Gomes de Souza, Campinas, SP Brazil

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |     |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Longevity and Outcomes of Axillary Valve Transplantation for Severe Lower Extremity Chronic Venous Insufficiency . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 496 |
| Loay Kabbani, Guillermo A. Escobar, Farah Mansour, Thomas W. Wakefield, and Peter K. Henke,Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti, Michigan                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |     |
| Post-Carotid Endarterectomy Hyperperfusion Syndrome—Is It Predictable by Lack of Cerebral Reserve? . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   | 502 |
| George L. Hines, Alexandra Oleske, and Martin Feuerman, Mineola, New York                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |     |
| Contemporary Management of Aberrant Right Subclavian Arteries. . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | 508 |
| William M. Stone, Joseph J. Ricotta II, Richard J. Fowl, Nitin Garg, Thomas C. Bower, and Samuel R. Money, Rochester, Minnesota and Scottsdale, Arizona                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |     |
| Predictors of Diagnostic Success With Renal Artery Duplex Ultrasonography . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | 515 |
| Nasim Hedayati, David J. Del Pizzo, Sean E. Harris, Michael Kuskowski, William C. Pevec, Eugene S. Lee, Christy Pifer, and David L. Dawson, Sacramento, California                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |     |
| One-Year Outcome After Percutaneous Rotational and Aspiration Atherectomy in Infrainguinal Arteries in Patient With and Without Type 2 Diabetes Mellitus . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 520 |
| Sebastian Sixt, Dierk Scheinert, Aljoscha Rastan, Hans Krankenberg, Hermann Steinkamp, Andrej Schmidt, Horst Sievert, Erich Minar, Marc Bosiers, Patrick Peeters, Jörn O. Balzer, Thilo Tübler, Christian Wissgott, Christopher Nielsen, Uwe Schwarzwälder, and Thomas Zeller, Bad Krozingen, Leipzig, Hamburg, Berlin, and Frankfurt, Germany; Vienna, Austria; and Dendermonde and Bonheiden, Belgium |     |
| BASIC SCIENCE RESEARCH                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |     |
| An Aortic Model for the Physiological Assessment of Endovascular Stent-Grafts . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        | 530 |
| Mital Desai, Maqsood Ahmed, Arnold Darbyshire, Zhong You, George Hamilton, and Alexander M. Seifalian, London and Oxford, United Kingdom                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |     |
| Rapamycin-Loaded Nanoparticles for Inhibition of Neointimal Hyperplasia in Experimental Vein Grafts . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  | 538 |
| Junjie Zou, Xiwei Zhang, Hongyu Yang, Yi Zhu, Hao Ma, and Shui Wang, Jiangsu Province, China                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |     |
| Asymmetric Dimethylarginine Levels in Buerger's Disease . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | 547 |
| Abdullah Kemal Tuygun, Aybanu Tuygun, Nurgül Yurtseven, Yavuz Şensöz, Rafet Günay, Mustafa Keser, Ulvi Hakan Tuygun, Bülent Ketenci, Sinan Şahin, and Ibrahim Yekeler, Istanbul, Turkey                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |     |
| CASE REPORT ABSTRACTS                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |     |
| Full text and images of these case reports can be seen at www.annalsofvascularsurgery.com                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |     |
| Eversion Carotid Endarterectomy for Recurrent Stenosis After Carotid Angioplasty/Stenting . . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | 555 |
| Edward Kang, and Timothy M. Sullivan, Minneapolis, Minnesota                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |     |
| Endovascular Management of a Ruptured Thoracoabdominal Aneurysm—Damage Control With Superior Mesenteric Artery Snorkel and Thoracic Stent-Graft Exclusion. . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | 555 |
| Paul J. Riesenman, James G. Reeves, and Karthikeshwar Kasirajan, Atlanta, Georgia                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |     |
| Compartment Syndrome as a Rare Complication of Iloprost Infusion for Peripheral Vascular Disease. . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | 555 |
| Gregory P. Thomas, Sameer Kadam, Mohammed Mohammed, and Brian T.E. Andrews, Kent, United Kingdom                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |     |
| Multiple Serial Aneurysms of Brachial Artery With Multiple Arteriovenous Malformations of Forearm. . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | 555 |
| B.V. Sai Chandran, Debashish Nayak, Bhawana Badhe, and K.S.V.K. Subbarao, Puducherry, India                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |     |
| Diagnosis and Surgical Treatment of a Takayasu Disease on an Abdominal Aortic Dissection. . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              | 556 |
| Theresa Khalife, Jean-Marc Alsac, Marc Lambert, Emmanuel Messas, Jean-Paul Duong Van Huyen, Patrick Bruneval, Patrick Farahmand, Pierre Julia, and Jean-Noël Fabiani, Paris, Lille, France                                                                                                                                                                                                              |     |
| Endovascular Treatment of Abdominal Aortic Aneurysm After Previous Left Pneumonectomy: A Sound Choice. . . . .                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 | 556 |
| Marco Agrifoglio, Stefano Zoli, Antioco Cappai, Piero Trabattoni, Rita Spirito, and Paolo Biglioli, Milan, Italy                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |     |

Download English Version:

<https://daneshyari.com/en/article/2887355>

Download Persian Version:

<https://daneshyari.com/article/2887355>

Daneshyari.com