
Reviewers for volumes 56 and 57

The Blue Journal seeks to publish material of importance to practicing dermatologists. To ensure quality all manuscripts undergo a rigorous review process. Most have been reviewed by one or more editors and at least two reviewers. Authors are given the opportunity to recommend reviewers; an effort is made to invite at least one of the suggested reviewers, although this is not always possible. Reviewers are urged to exert every effort to make recommendations that will improve the quality of the articles. Listed below are the reviewers who contributed their time and effort during the past year. We thank them and hope to have the opportunity to call on them again. The expert peer review process is the cornerstone of scientific publication; we are all indebted to individuals who volunteer their time and expertise to contribute to the Journal of the American Academy of Dermatology and to the profession.—Editor
