

Contents lists available at ScienceDirect

Women's Studies International Forum

journal homepage: www.elsevier.com/locate/wsif

BIOGRAPHICAL STATEMENTS

Douglas Abbott is a professor of Child, Youth & Family Studies, University of Nebraska Lincoln, Lincoln, NE. His professional interests are: cross-cultural research especially related to mate selection and marital happiness, adolescent sexual decision making, and development of sexual orientation in adolescents and young adults. Address: 134 Home Economics Building, University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Lincoln, NE 68588-0801 (Email: dabbott@unlnotes.unl.edu).

Fida Afioni is an Assistant Professor of Human Resource Management at the American University of Beirut Olayan School of Business.

Victoria Clarke is an associate professor in Sexuality Studies, a member of the Centre for Appearance Research and based in the Department of Psychology at the University of the West of England, Bristol.

Jocelyn Elise Crowley is a Professor of Public Policy, a member of the Graduate Faculty in the Department of Political Science, and an Affiliated Faculty Member of the Department of Women's and Gender Studies at Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey. Most recently, the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation has funded many of her research projects on mothers' organizations in the United States, parenting challenges and public policy, and workplace flexibility. Her book, Mothers Unite! Organizing for Workplace Flexibility and the Transformation of Family Life, was published by Cornell University Press in 2013. She has also written extensively on the topic of family law and public policy, including her books The Politics of Child Support in America (2003; Cambridge University Press) and Defiant Dads: Fathers' Rights Activists in America (2008; Cornell University Press). In addition to contributing to edited volumes on international fathers' rights movements and motherhood politics, she has published numerous articles in the American Journal of Political Science, Social Science Quarterly, Review of Religious Research, Health Education and Behavior, Legislative Studies Quarterly,

Journal of Public Administration Research and Theory, Publius: The Journal of Federalism, Marriage and Family Review, Justice System Journal, Perspectives on Politics, Social Service Review, Journal of Contemporary Ethnography, Sociological Inquiry, Women's Studies Quarterly, Social Forces, Sociological Spectrum, Family Relations, and the Eastern Economic Journal. During the 2005–2006 academic year, she was chosen to be a Visiting Scholar at the Russell Sage Foundation in New York City. She spent the 2006–2007 academic year at the Department of Politics, New York University and the Social Indicators Survey Center, Columbia University School of Social Work.

Dr. Selda Dagistanli is a criminologist and socio-legal researcher. She is a lecturer in Criminology in the School of Social Sciences and Psychology at the University of Western Sydney. Her main research interests revolve around the intersections of Western multicultural politics, criminal justice and law, while her overarching research priority is an interrogation of the various ways in which unpopular minorities are morally, politically and culturally marginalised in legal and broader community arenas. Her doctoral research focused on the role of the courts in racialised moral panics around a series of gang rapes perpetrated by young Muslim background men in Sydney. This research was informed by a disciplinary background in philosophy. Selda is currently working on a monograph entitled 'Trialling Culture, Protecting Women: Racialising Sexual Violence in Legal and Political Discourses' with Ashgate Publishing, UK, due for publication in 2014. Selda is also currently a Chief Investigator, in collaboration with Associate Professor Adam Possamai, Professor Bryan Turner from the University of Western Sydney and Professor Malcolm Voyce from Macquarie University on an ARC Discovery Project entitled, "Testing the limits of post-secularism and multiculturalism in Australia and the USA: Shari'a in the everyday life of Muslim communities".

Sudhamshu Dahal is a SAARC Scholar in Department of Media Sciences, Anna University, Chennai, India. He has worked in the media, communication and development sector for over 15 years in Nepal and India. His research interests are development communication; community empowerment; political sociology; ICT for development; internet governance; and policy analysis.

---

Dr. Petra Debusscher is a postdoctoral fellow of the Research Foundation – Flanders (FWO) at the Department of Political Sciences of Ghent University. She has written her PhD on 'Gender Mainstreaming in European Union Development Policy' (2010). Her areas of expertise are include international development cooperation, gender equality in European Union policies, (transnational) women's organisations and gender mainstreaming. On these issues she has published articles in journals such as International Development Planning Review, Women's Studies International Forum, Latin American Perspectives, Journal of Women, Politics & Policy and Development and Change. She teaches undergraduate and master courses on gender theories and equality policies, gender and the European Union and interest representation in Europe.

---

Patricia Easteal is a Professor who teaches law at the University of Canberra. Her multidisciplinary research examines 'justice' for women and other minorities. She has written over 150 academic journal articles and chapters and 14 books including 2010 Women and the Law in Australia, Real Rape, Real Pain: Help for Women Sexually Assaulted by Male Partners (2006), Less Than Equal: Women and the Australian Legal System (2001), Balancing the Scales: Rape, Law Reform and Australian Culture (1998), Shattered Dreams, Marital Violence Against Women: The Overseas-born in Australia (1996), Voices of the Survivors (1994), Killing the Beloved: Homicide between Adult Sexual Intimates (1993). She was named 2010 Australian of the Year (ACT) and received a 2010 Member Order of Australia 'for service to the community, education and the law through promoting awareness and understanding of violence against women, discrimination and access to justice for minority groups.'

---

Sara E. Grineski is an Associate Professor of Sociology in the Department of Sociology and Anthropology and the co-Director of the Environment Core of the Hispanic Health Disparities Research Center at the University of Texas at El Paso. Her research interests include social inequalities, environmental injustice, and health disparities in the US southwest and US–Mexico border region.

---

Julia Grünenfelder obtained her PhD from the University of Zurich, Switzerland. She has done research on gender, work and development in northwest Pakistan, with a special focus on the working environments of Pakistani female development practitioners. Her research interests are in development as contested societal practice, gender and development, postcolonial research approaches, qualitative methodologies and the integration and exclusion of migrants in Switzerland.

---

Ayşe Gündüz-Hoşgör is a professor of sociology at Middle East Technical University (METU), Ankara, Turkey where she is also an associate dean at the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. She received her PhD degree in sociology from the University of Western Ontario, Canada. Her research interests fall in the intersections of social stratification by gender and ethnicity, sociology of development and child labor. Much of her work has also focused on methodology, research techniques and application of statistics in social sciences.

---

Emma Halliwell is a senior lecturer in Psychology, a member of the Centre for Appearance Research and based in the Department of Psychology at the University of the West of England, Bristol.

---

Nikki Hayfield is a lecturer in Social Psychology and a member of the Centre for Appearance Research and based in the Department of Psychology at the University of the West of England, Bristol.

---

Peter Hegarty is a Reader and Head of the School of Psychology at the University of Surrey. His interests are in social psychology, gender, sexuality, science and technology studies, and history. He is the author of Gentlemen's Disagreement: Alfred Kinsey, Lewis Terman and the Sexual Politics of Smart Men, published by University of Chicago Press (2013).

---

Alma A. Hernandez is a Robert Wood Johnson Health Policy Fellow and a Doctoral Student in Sociology at the University of New Mexico. Her research interests include Hispanic health disparities, children's well-being, health issues, and border crossing in US–Mexico border populations.

---

Theresa A. Hunt is a University Lecturer in the Humanities and Social Sciences Department at the New Jersey Institute of Technology in Newark, NJ, USA. She holds an MA in English and PhD in Global Affairs, both from Rutgers University. Dr. Hunt's current research investigates the use of gender, youth, and technology narratives in social justice movements, as well as the history of "youth" organizing in transnational feminism.

---

Download English Version:

<https://daneshyari.com/en/article/376075>

Download Persian Version:

<https://daneshyari.com/article/376075>

Daneshyari.com