On the Cover: Arthroscopic image from a 42-year-old woman with a binucleate osteochondritis dissecans lesion on the medial femoral condyle. The more posterior of the two fragments is flipped upside-down but remains in its bony bed. Both fragments are attached by a fibrous pedicle adjacent to the PCL. The patient was successfully treated with arthroscopic debridement followed by open preparation of the bed, autologous bone grafting, and barbed absorbable pin fixation of both fragments.
