Editor's Note:

This paper was developed from a panel delivered by the authors titled "Conducting Cross-Cultural Art Therapy Internationally: Ethical Implications" at the American Art Therapy Association Annual Conference in San Antonio, TX on 12 July 2014.

Highlights

- international art therapy collaborations entail:
  - self-reflexivity, decolonizing approach to cultural competence, and supervision
  - attention to culturally appropriate studio environment, materials, creative processes
  - accountability through long term commitment, and respectful power sharing

Abstract

Art therapists are increasingly offering their services in international contexts. Although usually altruistic in nature, unexamined practices can result in detrimental consequences to both the
