This is a PDF file of an unedited manuscript that has been accepted for publication. As a service to our customers we are providing this early version of the manuscript. The manuscript will undergo copyediting, typesetting, and review of the resulting proof before it is published in its final form. Please note that during the production process errors may be discovered which could affect the content, and all legal disclaimers that apply to the journal pertain.

Highlights

- This paper responds to a recent EJOR paper, which invited follow up studies.
- We provide a survey of where sporting rules led to unintended consequences.
- We compile cases of ill-conceived rules causing perverse unintended consequences.
- We hope the paper will help sports administrators and scientists to collaborate.
- We discuss implications for sports administrators and for policy makers generally.
