This is a PDF file of an unedited manuscript that has been accepted for publication. As a service to our customers we are providing this early version of the manuscript. The manuscript will undergo copyediting, typesetting, and review of the resulting proof before it is published in its final form. Please note that during the production process errors may be discovered which could affect the content, and all legal disclaimers that apply to the journal pertain.

Highlights

- We study the use of Islamic financing instruments (IFIs) by non-financial firms.
- IFIs form a significant share of the users' capital structures.
- Less profitable firms use more debt than equity which is largely made up of IFIs.
