This is a PDF file of an unedited manuscript that has been accepted for publication. As a service to our customers we are providing this early version of the manuscript. The manuscript will undergo copyediting, typesetting, and review of the resulting proof before it is published in its final form. Please note that during the production process errors may be discovered which could affect the content, and all legal disclaimers that apply to the journal pertain.

Highlights:

- Domiciliary carers have a role in screening and referral programs for malnutrition.
 - With support, domiciliary carers may have a role in malnutrition interventions.
 - Dietitians working with family carers of elderly people with dementia may improve outcomes.
 - Supporting family carers of the elderly may improve carer and patient satisfaction.
 - Intervention research regarding the role of domiciliary and family carers is needed.
