

Author's Accepted Manuscript

Stability of problem eating behaviors and weight loss trajectories following bariatric surgery: A longitudinal observational study

Eva M. Conceição, James E. Mitchell, Ana Pinto-Bastos, Filipa Arrojado, Isabel Brandão, Paulo P.P. Machado

PII: S1550-7289(16)30868-1
DOI: <http://dx.doi.org/10.1016/j.soard.2016.12.006>
Reference: SOARD2854

To appear in: Surgery for Obesity and Related Diseases

Cite this article as: Eva M. Conceição, James E. Mitchell, Ana Pinto-Bastos, Filipa Arrojado, Isabel Brandão and Paulo P.P. Machado, Stability of problem eating behaviors and weight loss trajectories following bariatric surgery: A longitudinal observational study, Surgery for Obesity and Related Diseases, <http://dx.doi.org/10.1016/j.soard.2016.12.006>

This is a PDF file of an unedited manuscript that has been accepted for publication. As a service to our customers we are providing this early version of the manuscript. The manuscript will undergo copyediting, typesetting, and review of the resulting galley proof before it is published in its final citable form. Please note that during the production process errors may be discovered which could affect the content, and all legal disclaimers that apply to the journal pertain.

Stability of problem eating behaviors and weight loss trajectories following bariatric surgery: a longitudinal observational study

Eva M. Conceição^a, PhD, James E. Mitchell^{b,c}, Ana Pinto-Bastos^a, MSc, Filipa
Arrojado^{a,c}, MSc, Isabel Brandão^d, PhD, Paulo P.P. Machado^a, PhD

^a School of Psychology, University of Minho

^b Neuropsychiatric Research Institute, Fargo, North Dakota

^c University of North Dakota, School of Medicine and Health Sciences, Fargo, North Dakota

^d Faculty of Medicine, University of Porto, Hospital de São João, Alameda Prof.

Hernâni Monteiro, 4200-319 Porto, Portugal

Correspondence to:

Eva M. Conceição; econceição@psi.uminho.pt ; School of psychology, University of Minho, Campus Gualtar, 4710-199, Braga, Portugal. Tlf: +351 253 604 220; Fax:
+351 253 604 224.

Acknowledgement: We would like to acknowledge Dr. Ross Crosby for his consulting work in the statistical analyses and Dr. Li Cao conducting power analyses and overall statistical support. We would also like to acknowledge Dr. José Maia da Costa, General Surgery, Hospital of Braga, Dr. John Preto, General surgery, Hospital of São João, Porto, and Dr. Cristina Teixeira, Nutritionist, Hospital of São João, Porto, for their help in reaching participants of this study.

Download English Version:

<https://daneshyari.com/en/article/5662143>

Download Persian Version:

<https://daneshyari.com/article/5662143>

Daneshyari.com