

Accepted Manuscript

Title: Understanding the temporary appropriation in relationship to social sustainability

Authors: J. Antonio Lara-Hernandez, Alessandro Melis

PII: S2210-6707(17)31603-7
DOI: <https://doi.org/10.1016/j.scs.2018.03.004>
Reference: SCS 1011

To appear in:

Received date: 24-11-2017
Revised date: 3-3-2018
Accepted date: 3-3-2018

Please cite this article as: Lara-Hernandez, J Antonio., & Melis, Alessandro., Understanding the temporary appropriation in relationship to social sustainability. Sustainable Cities and Society <https://doi.org/10.1016/j.scs.2018.03.004>

This is a PDF file of an unedited manuscript that has been accepted for publication. As a service to our customers we are providing this early version of the manuscript. The manuscript will undergo copyediting, typesetting, and review of the resulting proof before it is published in its final form. Please note that during the production process errors may be discovered which could affect the content, and all legal disclaimers that apply to the journal pertain.

Understanding the temporary appropriation in relationship to social sustainability

J. Antonio Lara-Hernandez., Alessandro Melis

University of Portsmouth, Winston Churchill Avenue Portsmouth PO1 2UP, United Kingdom

HIGHLIGHTS

- Research Gap/ novelty: link between TA and urban social sustainability •
- Novelty: Pivotal role of Culture in the TA of public space •
- Methodology potential: TA as indicator to assess urban social sustainability •
- TA as an alternative way of reading of the urban landscape •
- Significance: Social impact of TA deprivation/ large parts of population

ABSTRACT

This paper will review the relevant literature about the conceptualisation of the temporary appropriation within the urban environment. A vast review of theoretical and empirical texts reveals that despite the lack of a defined theory in this specific field, the temporary appropriation is a key concept for the understanding of people's sense of belonging to a place, and identity. The paper, therefore, attempts to fill the research gap through an extensive cross-disciplinary literature review that includes topophilia, space production, and environment and behaviour theories. Thus, the aim of the present writing is to frame, within the urban context, the relevance of the temporary appropriation in relation to social sustainability. To do so, it identifies and categorises the temporary appropriation into three main groups of activities featuring the urban landscape.

Keywords: Temporary appropriation, appropriation, urban sustainability, social sustainability

Download English Version:

<https://daneshyari.com/en/article/6775277>

Download Persian Version:

<https://daneshyari.com/article/6775277>

Daneshyari.com