

Accepted Manuscript

Title: The impact of collectivism and psychological ownership on protection motivation: a cross-cultural examination

Author: Philip Menard, Merrill Warkentin, Paul Benjamin Lowry

PII: S0167-4048(18)30048-8
DOI: <https://doi.org/10.1016/j.cose.2018.01.020>
Reference: COSE 1282

To appear in: Computers & Security

Received date: 30-7-2017
Revised date: 16-12-2017
Accepted date: 26-1-2018

Please cite this article as: Philip Menard, Merrill Warkentin, Paul Benjamin Lowry, The impact of collectivism and psychological ownership on protection motivation: a cross-cultural examination, Computers & Security (2018), <https://doi.org/10.1016/j.cose.2018.01.020>.

This is a PDF file of an unedited manuscript that has been accepted for publication. As a service to our customers we are providing this early version of the manuscript. The manuscript will undergo copyediting, typesetting, and review of the resulting proof before it is published in its final form. Please note that during the production process errors may be discovered which could affect the content, and all legal disclaimers that apply to the journal pertain.

The Impact of Collectivism and Psychological Ownership on Protection Motivation: A Cross-Cultural Examination

Philip Menard*
School of Computing
University of South Alabama

Merrill Warkentin
College of Business
Mississippi State University

Paul Benjamin LOWRY
Faculty of Business and Economics
The University of Hong Kong

* Corresponding Author:

Philip Menard
Assistant Professor of Information Systems
Department of Information Systems and Technology
School of Computing
University of South Alabama
150 Jaguar Drive
Shelby Hall, Suite 2101
Mobile, AL 36688-0002
pmenard@southalabama.edu
(251) 460-6693 (phone)

Philip Menard* is an Assistant Professor of Information Systems at the University of South Alabama. He received his Ph.D. from Mississippi State University. He is particularly interested in the impacts of security measures on organizational end users, security education training and awareness (SETA) programs, and the impact of espoused cultural values on individuals' performance of secure behaviors. He has published at Journal of MIS, Journal of the AIS, and Journal of CIS. He has presented his work at several conferences, including AMCIS and HICSS. He has served as a reviewer for several IS journals and conferences.

Merrill Warkentin is the James J. Rouse Professor of Information Systems in the College of Business at Mississippi State University. His primary research focus is in behavioral IS security and privacy issues, and has appeared in MIS Quarterly, Decision Sciences, Journal of MIS, Journal of the AIS, European Journal of Information Systems, Information Systems Journal, Decision Support Systems, Information & Management, and others. He was the 2016 AMCIS Program Co-Chair. He holds or has

Download English Version:

<https://daneshyari.com/en/article/6883954>

Download Persian Version:

<https://daneshyari.com/article/6883954>

Daneshyari.com