Acknowledgements

The authors wish to express gratitude to Associate Professor Osman Reha YOLALAN, who provided helpful instructions and guidance in determining the questions in the questionnaires; to Assistant Professor Serpil KILIÇ DEPREN, who gave significant support in the statistical analysis.

The authors also would like to express special gratitude and thanks to the academicians, personnel of the regulatory bodies for sharing their thoughts and comments upon the interview and questions in the questionnaires. Finally, we would like to thank the people who are in the banks' board of directors, audit committees, internal audit, internal control, and risk management departments for giving permission to conduct research in the banks and providing support taking role as either interviewers or participants in the questionnaires. Without their help, facing many difficulties would have been inevitable while doing this research.
