

Author's Accepted Manuscript

Development of urogenital system in the Spix cavy:
a model for studies on sexual differentiation

Amilton Cesar dos Santos, Alan James Conley,
Moacir Franco de Oliveira, Antônio Chaves de
Assis-Neto

PII: S0301-4681(17)30106-8
DOI: <https://doi.org/10.1016/j.diff.2018.04.001>
Reference: DIFF531

To appear in: Differentiation

Received date: 8 September 2017
Revised date: 4 April 2018
Accepted date: 11 April 2018

Cite this article as: Amilton Cesar dos Santos, Alan James Conley, Moacir Franco de Oliveira and Antônio Chaves de Assis-Neto, Development of urogenital system in the Spix cavy: a model for studies on sexual differentiation, Differentiation, <https://doi.org/10.1016/j.diff.2018.04.001>

This is a PDF file of an unedited manuscript that has been accepted for publication. As a service to our customers we are providing this early version of the manuscript. The manuscript will undergo copyediting, typesetting, and review of the resulting galley proof before it is published in its final citable form. Please note that during the production process errors may be discovered which could affect the content, and all legal disclaimers that apply to the journal pertain.

Development of urogenital system in the Spix cavy: a model for studies on sexual differentiation

Amilton Cesar dos Santos¹; Alan James Conley²; Moacir Franco de Oliveira³; Antônio Chaves de Assis-Neto^{1*}

¹ Department of Surgery, School of Veterinary Medicine and Animal Science. University of Sao Paulo, Av. Prof. Dr. Orlando Marques de Paiva, 87 ZC 05508-270, São Paulo-SP Brazil.

² Population Health & Reproduction, School of Veterinary Medicine, University of California, Davis, USA.

³ Department of Animal Science, UFERSA, Mossoró, Brazil.

*Corresponding author: E-mail address: antonioassis@usp.br (Antônio Chaves Assis-Neto).

Accepted manuscript

ABSTRACT

Download English Version:

<https://daneshyari.com/en/article/8436204>

Download Persian Version:

<https://daneshyari.com/article/8436204>

Daneshyari.com