Highlights

- We compared the floral morphology in two morphs of a heterostylous species, Persicaria odorata subsp. conspicua.
- Morphological features are observed and measured, and statistical analysis is performed to analyze floral dimorphism using LMM.
- Two morphs of P. odorata subsp. conspicua had similar micromorphological traits except floral characters.
- P. odorata subsp. conspicua is a clearly distylous taxon, and both morphs are functionally hermaphroditic flowers.
