“Sexual quality of life in breast and ovarian cancer patients: tip of the iceberg!”*Highlights

- Sexual quality of life in breast and ovarian cancer patients: tip of the iceberg!
- Sexual quality of life is a multidimensional measure involving physical, emotional, body image domains interacting with each other.
- The women's sexuality can be specially complex after breast, gynecological and pelvic cancers, and coping with the sexual changes affects their quality of life in a significant manner
- A successful management plan requires the fine tuning and open dialogue between health care professionals, patients and their families.
- Literature on sexual Quality of life in women cancers is sparse in India, but awareness is increasing amongst health care providers.
- This review is an attempt to provide a stage for this sensitive and less talked about issue and also to suggest directions for the future course in addressing some unanswered questions.
