This is a PDF file of an unedited manuscript that has been accepted for publication. As a service to our customers we are providing this early version of the manuscript. The manuscript will undergo copyediting, typesetting, and review of the resulting proof before it is published in its final form. Please note that during the production process errors may be discovered which could affect the content, and all legal disclaimers that apply to the journal pertain.

Highlights

- There is thought to be a link between alexithymia and suicidality
- A scoping review of alexithymia and suicidality was conducted
- The evidence base was too mixed to draw any clear conclusions on a link
- Interoception may prove illuminating and should be considered in future research
